From the Editor

In her Introduction to this Index, Nora Corley comments that the reader does not generally appreciate the work of the editor of a publication such as the Bulletin. I would like to add that no one appreciates the work of the compiler of this Index more than the editor. Every reader of the Bulletin owes a vote of thanks to Nora Corley for her thorough and painstaking analysis of these 32 issues.

Nora mentions that the 32 issues include a total of 2240 pages, averaging 70 pages per issue, ranging from 28 to 140. By comparison, the first 70 issues totaled 1945 pages, averaging 28 pages per issue and ranging from four to 60 pages.

Starting this year (1978) we plan to issue an annual index as a part of the Bulletin.

Attention is called to the updated Publications List inside the back cover. The price of the earlier index has been reduced to $3.50 in the United States, Canada, and Mexico; $4.50 elsewhere. The price of the new index is $5.00 in the United States, Canada, and Mexico, and $6.00 elsewhere.

INTRODUCTION

The reader of any serial publication does not generally appreciate the work of the editor when each issue is received and read as an individual publication. However, when one sits down to read a consecutive run of several numbers (in this case 32) one cannot help but be impressed by the incredible amount of work done by the editor, as well as the imagination, inventiveness, ingenuity, and all around knowledge of the subject matter the editor must possess to be able to produce, every three months, a publication as highly professional, useful, and to many indispensable, as the Bulletin of the Geography and Map Division, Special Libraries Association. Of the issues indexed here (nos. 71-102) the first five were edited by Frank J. Anderson, the last one by Mary Murphy, one by a committee of editors, and the remaining 24 by Lynn S. Mullins. The Division has been fortunate indeed to find three people of such talent and dedication. Much of the unsigned material is obviously from their pens.

The Bulletin has been for many years a recognized primary source for geography and map librarians. Flipping through the Index one cannot but be impressed by the great variety of subject matter treated, and the professionalism of the authors. Not only is the Bulletin valuable as a source of information found nowhere else, but it also does a splendid job of keeping librarians up-to-date in the literature of the field, and the sources of this material. The quality and quantity of the book and atlas reviews and map and atlas lists add greatly to the Bulletin's value. In eight years 351 books, atlases, and related material have been formally reviewed, while countless others have been noted.

The Index to the first 70 issues of the Bulletin, covering the first 20 years, was prepared by Frank J. Anderson, then editor, and published in 1971. The present Index covers the next 32 issues (2240 pages). For the sake of statistics it might be noted that the issues from 1968 to 1975 average 70 pages with a low of 28 and a high of 140.

Every article and substantial note has been entered by author and title. Entries have been made for all co-authors. Subject entries have been made in addition to titles only if helpful, and not if the title starts with the same word as the subject. Author and title entries have been made for books reviewed or noted.

Very little information in the Bulletin has been omitted from the Index. Such items as job vacancies, changes in price, etc., have not been included as they very soon become "old hat" and are not likely to be searched.

The Index is also a source for the history of the Geography and Map Division and its members, as annual and regional meetings have been well documented, as well as personal news of the membership.

It is hoped that this Index will prove a useful key to the vast amount of knowledge contained in the Bulletin. Certainly, preparing the Index has been a rewarding and edifying experience for the compiler.
